Antwoord van Vice-President Communications:

Thank you for your inquiry about our Grasberg operations and how we embed respect for human rights at our operations and in our host communities. During the last several years, we have been working to further embed respect for human rights in our daily activities at our Grasberg operation. As you may be aware, we:

- were a founding signatory of the Voluntary Principles on Security and Human Rights
- have had several active grievance mechanisms in place for both internal and external stakeholders for many years
- most recently conducted both a third-party Human Rights Impact Assessment and Copper Mark assurance for Grasberg

Below are our main sustainability-related disclosures, many of which are third-party assured, that contain answers to your questions on our policies, programs and overall management processes. The list covers all aspects of sustainability, including human rights, tailings management, biodiversity and security.
